II. OVERVIEW OF UCR

UCR is situated on nearly 1,200 acres located three miles east of downtown Riverside. It is in the heart of the “Inland Empire,” an area that includes western Riverside and San Bernardino counties and has become one of the fastest growing areas in California. UCR serves as one of the most important educational and cultural resources for the area.

Undergraduate and graduate degree programs are offered by the College of Humanities, Arts, and Social Sciences; the College of Natural and Agricultural Sciences; the Bourns College of Engineering; the School of Business Administration; the Graduate School of Education; and the Division of Biomedical Sciences. In 2008 two additional academic programs were approved, the School of Medicine, and the Graduate Program in Public Policy.

III. PROJECT INFORMATION AND REQUIREMENTS

A. SCOPE OF SERVICES

The selected firm will provide structural engineering services for various UC Riverside projects. The work may include, but is not limited to, the following tasks:

- In support of UCR’s Campus Building Official and UCR’s Permit Program, provide structural peer review of structural design and calculations for both new construction, renovations, as well as providing analysis of structural worthiness, compliance and applicability of existing buildings with recommendations for equipment installations in existing campus buildings and structures; in most instances, quick turn-around of the review, analysis, and related required recommendations and documentation will be imperative and required for proper and efficient processing of the campus request or installation of equipment.

- Providing third party peer review of the lateral system providing a measure of additional assurance regarding performance and safety of new construction, and repair or renovation of existing facilities all in accordance with the California Building Code, UCOP Seismic Safety Policy and best general engineering methods and standards. In most instances, services will require the provision of reviewing more than one design submittal per project and attendance of meetings with the Structural EOR to address comments provided in the peer review.

- Condition Assessment and Evaluation Reports (estimate of remaining service life, code compliance and seismic analysis) investigation, analysis and recommendation(s) for repair/alteration/replacement of existing structural systems and elements and/or support components, frequently to certify that existing structures are able to accept and support heavy research equipment with very small footprints, being installed in existing buildings. In most instances, quick turn-around of the review, analysis and related required documentation will be imperative and required for proper and efficient processing of the campus request or installation of equipment.

- Review of geotechnical evaluations and investigation studies, project specifications, structural calculations, structural models, drawings, and sketches.
Professional services utilization will be on an “On-call” and/or “As-needed” basis. These requested services must be provided on a very quick turnaround basis. As a project need arises, the consultant will be contacted by UCR with a proposed scope of services to be performed for each project.

- For permitting support, the consultant will bill according to previously agreed upon hourly rate schedule.
- For third party peer review, condition assessments, or other services, the consultant will submit a not-to-exceed fee proposal based on their hourly rate and on each respective request from UCR.
- The consultant will take direction from the Campus Building Official, and staff as designated by the Campus Building Official, concerning the project’s parameters. UCR will provide consultant with instruction, or may rely on consultant’s professional judgment and experience to define project requirements.
- A written Work Authorization will be issued to the consultant for each project or phase stating conditions and a not-to-exceed amount. The consultant should not begin work on the project until a Work Authorization is issued.
- No final payment to consultant for the project will be issued until the services authorized by UCR have been performed, completed and accepted by UCR.
- Follow-on contracts (professional services, consulting and construction) for projects where a Work Authorization has been issued will be prohibited.

B. SCHEDULE
The successful consultant should anticipate that services needed for permit review of non-capital repairs and improvements, turn-around time may be as little as one to two weeks. In some cases, required turnaround time may be less than one week. Other permit, peer review, and other services will proceed upon an agreed schedule.
